Autonomous Cars are coming – who is ready?

- Autonomous vehicles have very quickly moved from a far future possibility to an almost imminent certainty. The role of Autonomy is now set to disrupt many industries.
- However, in many places, the readiness of the technology now greatly leads the ability of sectors to deal with it.
- Both the pace of change and where that change happens will depend on who is ready ... and who is not.